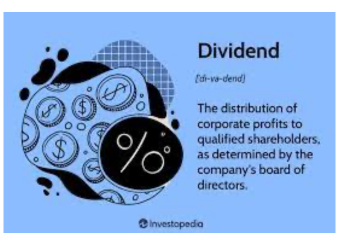
Issue 17

Right now, you probably have Green or Silver Niche Coins.

Green Niche Coins pay $25 and go up with 0.40% daily interest. If you hold them until May 30, you could get up to $50 a piece!

Silver Niche Coins have a par value of $20. If you hold it until May 30th, and you do not do a lick of work, you still get $20.



Silver Niche Coins will also pay up to 3 $20 dividends. That means if you actually do all the work you need to then you could get $80 – that's 3 $20 dividends plus the final $20 par value.

Green Niche Coins resemble the controversial insurance product known as an annuity, while Silver Niche Coins resemble the more stable asset class of a bond.

The Gold Niche Coin and the Blue Niche Coin have face values of $100 and $50 respectively. They resemble commodities, but we are not quite ready for a formal definition of a commodity.

How you can trade and exchange them will be revealed soon, but what's important to know is that contracts will be sent to everyone next week. Each contract allows you to access your Silver Coin dividends, which will be relevant for how you can trade and exchange the other Niche Coins.

As your contracts will reveal – and as you should know already – there are only certain options for "work." These options are listed below.

- Building Your Own Business
- Classic Internships at Local Businesses
- Debate Team
- Editing a Youth Magazine
- Fashion Show provided by The Damsel Project
- Financial Math and Poker

After February 29, new contracts, coins, and program dates will be released.
